

STR China Metrology Accreditation (CMA) in Mainland China

Specialized Technology Resources (STR) Shanghai and Shenzhen Laboratories have successfully obtained the China Metrology Accreditation (CMA) by the Shanghai and Guangdong Municipal Bureau of Quality and Technical Supervision. This accreditation allows STR to issue reports bearing the CMA mark, which is accepted by the Chinese Government for evaluation of a products quality and safety and is used for conformance to the mandatory standards in China.

China's rapid growth over the last few decades has made it a desirable marketing for many brands and retailers looking to expand their business. In order to sell products in China conformance to the Chinese standard is required; conformance is show by testing at a CMA lab and having a CMA test report. STR is able to offer this service to companies looking to enter the China market or those already in China that require testing of toys, textile and chemicals to the Chinese standards.

Please contact STR for any questions about CMA testing.
